WITNESS DESCRIBES SOVIET ARMY ANNIHILATION

DEMS MASSING FORCES TO PUT F. D. ON TICKET

Chicago Wins Convention Although Houston Offer Goes To $200,000

FARLEY TO CHOOSE DATE

G. O. P. Chief Chides Party, Scoring Leadership Deficiency

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Victorious in sending the 1940 Democratic national convention to Chicago, advocates of a third term for President Roosevelt today were supporting a September date for their convention.

While the third-term boom gained headlines, President Roosevelt himself remained silent, becoming increasingly irritable over efforts to smoke him out on the question. Date for the Democratic convention was left open when Chicago was picked as the site at the meeting of the Democratic national committee yesterday. The move was designed to worry Republicans, who meet Feb. 16 to select a date and site for the G. O. P. convention. The Republicans were expected to pick Chicago and vote for a July date "regardless of what the Democrats do."

Democratic national committee men were to meet with the President in a reception at the White House later today to tell him of the welling third-term sentiment. Third-term advocates, led by Mayor Edward Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., and Patrick A. Nash, national committeeman from Illinois, were attempting meanwhile to line up support for a late Democratic convention. They looked longingly toward a September session, believing such a convention could be stampeded to President Roosevelt on the grounds that any other candidate presented could not win in a short campaign.

HAMILTON CHIDES DEMS

G. O. P. National Chairman John D. Hamilton chided the Democrats for failing to fix a date. In a statement, he commented "what a spectacle," meaning the Democrats. He stated that "there is a party that has been in power for seven and one-half years and yet it apparently does not know its own mind." He charged, in effect, that the Democrats, by waiting to see what the G. O. P. would do.

Educator Cites Economy Of School-Owned Buses

School transportation figures for the state and for Pickaway County which were released Tuesday by George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, pointed out the fact that the county system of school owned buses is a cheaper and more efficient method of student transportation than the leased and partially owned bus system.

At present Pickaway County students are being transported to and from schools by both systems since the county school board does not own enough motor vehicles to operate in the 15 townships. Fourteen of the 69 buses in operation in the county today are owned by the school board. Comparative cost figures show that the annual cost per pupil for transportation in the four districts, county operated, to be $15.44 while the cost in the other 11 districts is $27.12 per student annually.

The total cost for the transportation of the 2,700 pupils daily over 2,255 miles is $73,211. The average cost for the 88 counties of the state stands at $77,527 per year. Added significance is given to the figures when it is shown that the Pickaway County system carries 39 pupils per bus while the rest of the state averages 42.

Because of the more extended use of board owned buses in other counties throughout the state the cost per student annually is $14.92. If the number of districts in which the board owned buses are operative were increased, it is felt that

On the Russo-Finnish Front, North of Lake Ladoga, Feb. 6—By extraordinary luck during the course of a visit to headquarters of the American volunteer ambulance corps in Finland, I found myself today near the scene of a great Finnish victory over the Russians, whose details are told here for the first time.

In this new triumph for Finland, the entire 18th division of the Red army was wiped out—its 20,000 troops killed, taken prisoner or dispatched to almost certain death by freezing in the frigid wilderness north of Lake Ladoga and east of Sortavala.

As the first and only reporter to reach the scene I can testify to the extent of the Soviet defeat.

Tanks Ruined, Arms Taken
I saw 42 Russian tanks destroyed and limitless quantities of war materials of all kinds jettisoned by the Russians over an area of 20 kilometers (12½ miles.)

The Finnish attack was so savage, swift and decisive that many wounded Russians froze to death in dugouts abandoned by their fleeing comrades.

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOL INCREASES TO 93 PUPILS

Muhlenberg grade school attendance increased Tuesday from 80 pupils to 93 and Principal John Weidinger, who took charge Monday, said that he expected it to go higher by the end of the week.

Supervision of the Muhlenberg grade school was assumed Monday by the Muhlenberg board after direction had been in the hands of the Monroe board since last September.

CHIEF OF F. B. I. ASKS MORE MEN

Hoover Declares There Are 1,847 Cases Pending For Federal Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been unable to investigate 1,847 cases relating to national defense—espionage, sabotage, etc.—due to lack of sufficient agents, Director J. Edgar Hoover told a house subcommittee in testimony released today.

Hoover disclosed that 2,664 national defense matters have been handled, but said that the following cases have not been investigated:

- 1,307 cases of alleged espionage;
- 311 cases of alleged treason; 196 cases where plants making national defense materials want an F. B. I. agent to establish a plant protection system; 16 cases of alleged sabotage; 10 smuggling cases, and seven cases where foreign agents allegedly have failed to register with the state department.

F. B. I. agents are handling an average of 19 cases, compared with 17 per man a year ago.

"An agent should not carry more than an average of 10 cases at one time," Hoover said.

Other disclosures made by Hoover during hearings on the 1941 appropriation for the F. B. I. were:

- 1.—A manual describing methods of protecting industrial plants against sabotage has been prepared by the F. B. I. Presently, Hoover said, there are 540 plants making materials for the army and navy. In wartime, there would be about 12,000 such plants. The F. B. I. already has established plant protection systems in 29 in-

MAN WHO SLEW TWO QUESTIONED IN MORE CRIMES

WEST UNION, Feb. 6—As authorities sought to link him with a recent series of holdups and burglaries, Dorwin Edgington, 26, confessed slayer of two persons, today awaited grand jury action. The jury was expected to report today.

When arrested in Portsmouth, Edgington confessed that he shot and killed Mr. and Mrs. Carven Grooms and then fired their home with gasoline.

Police said that Edgington and another suspect arrested with him were suspected of implication in a recent wave of robberies in Adams County. Edgington denied any participation in the fire-death last summer of Frank Jackson who died after his bedclothing ignited.

rades. Even the political commissars attached to Red divisions had fled, leaving all their records and papers behind them. It might be remarked that in Soviet setbacks, the commissars are invariably the first to get away.

Only melting snow will enable a full and complete check-up of the Soviet losses, but the amount of equipment I saw abandoned along the roadside leaves no doubt whatever that at least an entire division was put to rout. And I was able to inspect only one segment of an 80-mile front.

The first sight that met my eyes was an abandoned Ford military truck—belly upwards—which had tipped into

FINNS CONFIRM THIRD RUSSIAN DIVISION RUINED

Soldiers Speeding To Aid Trapped Force Routed; Staff Ambushed

HELSINKI, Feb. 6—Twenty thousand Russian troops today were reported trapped north of Lake Ladoga while "several hundreds" of Red army troops have been killed, according to the official Helsinki communique, in futile attacks.

HELSINKI, Feb. 6—Still another Soviet division of 20,000 troops was reported trapped north of Lake Ladoga today as fragmentary military information indicated that the unit previously annihilated in Finland's latest smashing victory was a reinforcement division rushing to the other's aid when disaster came. The Finnish war ministry withheld official announcement of the first victory until fate of the trapped division has been ascertained. It was assumed that Finland's military leaders were awaiting final word of the complete clean-up of Russian forces north of the lake.

BRICKER SCORED AS SPENDTHRIFT BY JOE FERGUSON

CLEVELAND, Feb. 6—Governor Bricker today was accused of being "extravagant" and "deceitful" by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat.

Speaking at a rally of the Lakewood Democratic Club, Ferguson charged that the state had a deficit of $884,000 last year, despite Republican administration claims of a $3,000,000 surplus and the fact that $34,000,000 more was available to Bricker than to his predecessor, Martin L. Davey.

"When they say Bricker is economy minded it's all bunk," Ferguson declared.

"I challenge Bricker, the Chamber of Commerce or anybody else to send a certified public accountant to examine the books..." the auditor continued. "He's the greatest spendthrift in Ohio. He's trying to fool the public. He's the most deceitful governor I've ever seen."

"If anybody should know, it is the auditor of state," Ferguson charged that bills for last year were carried over to this year to improve the appearance of the 1939 record.

SIX GERMANS REMOVED FROM PORTUGUESE LINER

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 6—Intercepting the Portuguese vessel Nyassa off the South African coast, a British warship today removed six Germans suspected of hostile activities. The Germans were landed at Cape Town for internment.

a ravine beneath a dynamited bridge.

Most of the bodies of its occupants had been removed, but one booted leg was still visible. The Finns while mopping up all corpses they can find to guard against pestilence when the spring thaw comes, didn't have time to jack up the truck and fish out this lone reminder of battle.

The truck lay in the snow just beyond a line of barbed-wire emplacements and anti-tank "asparagus."

Kitchens Abandoned

From that point on the road to the front was lined with hastily abandoned field-kitchens, the corpses of horses lying with distended stomachs and perpendicular legs. Tarpaulin-covered stacks of gasoline drums, fire-gutted tanks, and mounds of steel helmets, rifles, shell-cases, cartridge-belts, and bayonets.

I saw one staff car which had not been touched by bullets or shells, but its carburetor had been removed. At another spot was an ambulance in perfect working order although indescribably filthy.

Inside were four frozen corpses.

Further on along the road I saw two trucks which looked more or less like school buses which had been fitted out for regimental field commissars. They contained individualized details of regimental personnel, elementary text-books or geometry and trigonometry and geographies that showed Finland "properly" in Russian territory.

Maps found in these cars showed Finland likewise. One big chart had Finland printed in Red, with a thin green line to delineate the present frontier.

Driving onward in a Finnish staff car, I found the road deserted except for occasional road-sweepers and Finland's ubiquitous sentries. Despite the fact that staff officers were in the car, the password always had to be given, and it was always whispered, notwithstanding the fact that the language is still little understood by me.

WRAPPED in a blanket, his face blue with the intense cold, Webster N. Jones, Jr., is carried by rescuers out of the mountains at Crawford Notch, N. H., after having been lost for 28 hours in below-zero temperatures on blizzard-swept Mt. Washington. Rescuers said Jones' legs were frozen from the knees down.

He is the son of Dr. W. N. Jones, engineering college director of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. Jones was lost when he became separated from his skiing companion. Jones told rescuers he sang to keep up his spirits and to shake off drowsiness.

TWO NEW MOVES TO HELP FINNS SENT TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Two new proposals for aid to Finland faced the senate foreign relations committee today as it convened to consider pending Finnish relief measures.

One would provide the little republic with a direct loan or grant of $5,000,000—approximately the amount Finland has paid on its World War debt principal and interest due the United States.

The other sought to assure that the proposed export-import bank loans to Finland aggregated $30,000,000.

Both were sponsored by Senator Brown (D) Michigan, as adjuncts to his pending resolution increasing export-import bank capital $100,000,000, limiting single loans to $30,000,000 and barring credit for arms. Scheduled as a witness before the committee in behalf of his proposal, Brown said he would informally offer both additions for discussion.

PICKETS THROW STONES AT GAS PLANT'S GUARDS

TOLEDO, Feb. 6—Peaceful picketing was resumed today at the West Central Avenue plant of the Ohio Fuel Gas company after police dispersed pickets who threw stones at armed guards, breaking a few windows.

It was the first outbreak of violence in the five-day old strike of 200 members of the CIO Gas Workers Union.

Police said that pickets threw stones when the guards at the plant appeared on the roof armed with shotguns. The armed men were called inside the plant and the pickets dispersed until the guards returned without their guns.

Meanwhile David T. Roadley, United States Labor Department conciliator, indicated the company and the union were approaching an agreement on three points of difference, namely union recognition, seniority and the form of the contract to be drawn up.

European Bulletins

PARIS — Threatening Sweden, German troops formerly stationed at Bremen and Hamburg have crossed the Kiel Canal and are being concentrated at Pomeranian forts, Genevieve Tabouis, French political commentator, reported today. She cited a German announcement that the Stettin and Rugenot garrisons have been reinforced.

LONDON—Eight British ships totalling 25,069 tons, and six neutral vessels aggregating 17,546 tons were sunk as a result of enemy action during the week ending at midnight, February 4, it was announced officially today.

BOMBAY — India's Nationalist congress party is determined not to permit the British government to have the sole final word regarding the status of India as a unit of the British empire, Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the party, disclosed today.

TOKYO — Great Britain has agreed to surrender to Japan nine of the German seamen seized from the Japanese liner Asama Maru by a British cruiser, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita informed the House of Peers today. Altogether 21 German sailors were taken from the liner in an incident which caused widespread indignation throughout Japan.

BRITAIN TO RATION ITS MEAT STARTING MARCH 11

LONDON, Feb. 6—Rationing of meat will begin in Great Britain on March 11, W. S. Morrison, minister of food, announced in the House of Commons today.

At present, only butter and bacon are rationed in this country. Meat rations will be allocated, Morrison said, on the initial scale of 1 shilling, ten pence worth (36 cents) per week for all persons over six years of age and 11 pence worth (18 cents) per week for children under six.

CANADIAN LINER VICTIM OF SUB, GOES TO BOTTOM

LONDON, Feb. 6—The torpedoing and sinking of the 9,874-ton Canadian Pacific cargo liner Beaverburn off the Southwest coast of England was reported authoritatively today.

Ships immediately raced to the scene and the owners of the vessel announced today that 76 members of the Beaverburn's crew of 77 men were rescued. One crew member was known to be missing. The vessel carried no passengers.

Until all the survivors are landed, exact details regarding the loss of the vessel will not be known.

The large freighter, a speedy, twin-screw vessel owned by Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., was engaged in Anglo-Canadian trade. She was constructed in 1927 and registered at London.

TRUCK'S WHEEL GOES CALLING ON THE JUDGE

A truck and its wheels parted company on East Main Street Monday night as the wheels decided to go on a jaunt by themselves.

The truck was heading west on Main Street when both tires of the dual left rear wheel hopped off and went rolling. One rolled into Mason's Shell Service Station, and it wasn't looking for air. It was just a good place to light.

The other went bounding along the street, hopped over the curb, then over a lawn curb, and in a gallant leap cleared the porch rail and came down with a crash at Judge Meeker Terwilliger's door.

The truck continued on its way, resenting the apparent mutiny and came to a sliding halt in front of the United Brethren community house.

On investigating, Judge Terwilliger found his rather loud caller resting comfortably on his porch. Soon, however, truck and tires were reunited and both rolled merrily on their way together.

USE OF FORGED DOCUMENTS HIT BY RULES UNIT

Attorney General's Office Asked To Consider Action Against Attackers

JACKSON TO ACCEPT JOB

Rep. Fish To Demand That Several Be Summoned To Face Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—William Dudley Pelley, Silver Shirt leader for whom the Dies committee has been searching for months, voluntarily walked into the committee's offices today and gave himself up for questioning.

Robert E. Stripling, committee secretary, immediately served him with a subpoena.

Pelley is also wanted in North Carolina for violation of a suspended sentence in connection with a "blue sky" law conviction five years ago.

A slightly-built man with a professional demeanor and a Van Dyke beard, Pelley had been the subject of numerous rumors regarding disguises and other artifices which he was said to have employed to avoid apprehension.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—A grand jury investigation into the Dies committee's charge that forgery was used in an attack on the character of its chairman, Rep. Martin Dies, in an effort to "smear" the committee, appeared certain today.

The controversy was laid on the doorstep of New Deal Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson, while friends of the committee pursued their fight before the house rules committee to expunge from the congressional record the attack made on Dies by Rep. Frank E. Hook (D) of Michigan.

While the Dies committee turned over to Jackson evidence taken in secret session, the latter pondered the request of Hook for a grand jury investigation. Jackson, it was understood, would agree to investigate the entire matter.

As a rules sub-committee planned to resume hearings on a resolution to expunge Hook's speech from the record, Rep. Fish (R) of New York, member of the sub-committee, demanded that additional witnesses be summoned.

Documents Sold

The sub-committee had before it statements of Dies' committee members that David D. Mayne testified that he sold bogus documents to Harold Welsberg, which were used by Hook, and that in turn Gardner Jackson furnished $105 to pay Mayne.

Fish said that he was interested in the statement of Acting Chairman Starnes, of the Dies committee, that Drew Pearson, a Washington columnist, told Rep. Voorhis, (D) California that he could put him in touch with a man who might produce William Dudley Pelley, "Silver Shirt" leader, being sought by the committee, and that Pearson introduced Ralph Henshaw, who had been associated with Pearson. Pearson has denied the charge.

"I shall ask the rules committee to summon Pearson, Henshaw and Gardner Jackson," said Fish. "Henshaw was named as the man who introduced Mayne to Jackson."

"I made a speech in the house in 1935 in which I presented photo-copies showing that many fed-

BRITISH TO USE DEATH PENALTY AGAINST SPIES

LONDON, Feb. 6—The British government is considering legislation imposing the death penalty in most serious cases of leakage of disclosure of information to the enemy, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today.

At present, Chamberlain said, "there is no failure to take the most vigilant precautions against leakage of information."

do, lacked leadership. As for the Republicans, he added, their action on February 16 will be "decisive and our program will be positive and affirmative."

Power to act the Democrats' date was placed in the hands of the party's national chairman, James A. Farley. However, Farley, also a presidential possibility and reported opposed to a third term, promised to be guided by wishes of all national committeemen. With that assurance, Kelly, Hague and Nash began a quiet drive for a September date.

The three teamed up yesterday at the committee meeting to secure the convention for Chicago on a bid of $150,000, although Houston, Texas, bid $200,000 in cash, Philadelphia about $150,000, and San Francisco promised more than $150,000. Chicago did not put up any actual cash but promised to meet Philadelphia's sum.

Margin of Lone Vote

For a time it appeared, even to Farley, that the convention would go to Philadelphia. Voting was close, but after the first roll call, committeemen began switching and Chicago came out with 48 votes, just one more than necessary.

For days Chicago was confident it would get the meeting, and Mayor Kelly and Nash apparently had all the votes lined up ahead of time. Some committeemen were reported to have been told that a Chicago meeting would give the President a big pro-Roosevelt gallery. Veteran politicians recalled how the gallery nearly broke up one Chicago convention.

Committeemen marveled at the way Nash managed the swing to Chicago, which also had the convention in 1932. Now, Nash also planned to use all of his political strategy to stampede the convention to Roosevelt when it assembled, it was learned.

The committeemen adopted a resolution praising President Roosevelt's administration, without mentioning a third term. New Dealers had been warned in advance that any resolution endorsing the President would be out of order.

Farley and Vice-President John Nance Garner, the latter the only out-and-out presidential candidate among the Democrats, gave each other a pat on the back during speeches at the meeting. Farley said Garner was "sturdy" and "stalwart" while Garner said Farley was a "real American." The meeting adjourned after giving Farley power to select a convention keynoter and make other necessary arrangements.

TWO EXPLOSIONS PROTEST DEATH PLANS FOR IRISH

LONDON, Feb. 6—Two explosions apparently connected with tomorrow's executions of two Irish youths occurred in the Euston station courtyard today, injuring one person.

The blasts occurred in mailbags being placed on a train for Birmingham, where the two Irishmen are jailed and awaiting execution of death sentences for their part in the Coventry bomb explosions of last August.

Scotland Yard experts rushed to the Euston station area and searched all mail boxes, telephone booths and other possible hiding places following the explosions.

John W. Dulanty, high commissioner in London for Eire, was instructed by the Dublin government to see Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and urge clemency for the two condemned Irishmen.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Feb. 6—Armed police patrolled the approaches to the Birmingham jail today to frustrate any possible attempt to deliver two young Irishmen, Peter Barnes and James McCormack, condemned to die for taking part in the Coventry bomb explosions of last August.

Execution of the two youths was set for tomorrow after Home Security Minister Sir John Anderson decided against advising King George VI to exercise royal clemency.

It has been known for some time that a Soviet division was encircled in an entirely untenable position in the vicinity of Kitale. Yesterday's Finnish war communiqué told of an attack by Finnish troops on this division in which at least 500 Russians were killed and a large quantity of war materials seized.

Battle Near Frontier

Reliable information indicates that the division which was wiped out was encountered by the Finns at a point considerably further east and closer to the Soviet frontier.

The exact site of the disaster was given as between Uomas and Kaemeselkae. Military observers were convinced that the division annihilated in this district was on its way to relieve the Kitale faction.

Thus the latter is left without the shock troops and reinforcements it has badly needed for weeks and the Finnish high command was believed consolidating its forces to surround this detachment and bring to four the number of Soviet divisions wiped out since the campaign began.

Editor's Note: In connection with the rout of the 18th division, the London Daily Express and Daily Mail reported from Stockholm that the unit's entire divisional staff, traveling in automobiles along a snow covered road near Oumas, had been ambushed and killed by Finnish ski patrols. "Immense booty" was taken from the staff cars, these dispatches said.

Brief messages received in Helsinki lent all confirmation to reports of a decisive new victory for the Finns. The retreating division left behind hundreds of machine-guns and a whole trainload of ammunition. The Russians scattered in such a hurry that they left not only their arms but their food supplies behind.

Jars of marmalade and bully beef and hundreds of blankets were among the prizes of war taken by the Finns.

Meanwhile, Soviet aerial activity continued, with a hospital ship frozen in the ice at an undisclosed port bombed and machine-gunned. The crew succeeded in removing safely the only wounded patient aboard the ship. Four Russian planes participated in the one-hour attack.

tion of 94 votes. They also expect Farley to develop strength throughout New England and the East and send him into the convention with a total of between 150 and 225 votes on the first ballot.

Farley discussed his plans with some of his intimate friends on the Democratic national committee in the last few days. Many of them pledged him outright support, others promised him second choice votes.

This means Farley, cabinet member, Democratic national chairman and New York state chairman, is opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt. He may never declare himself publicly, out of friendship for the President, but his willingness to seek the Democratic nomination for himself discloses his position.

There is always the possibility that Farley may change his mind about the third term issue, due to international conditions. Friends say he might even support the President for another term if at convention time, the United States appeared about to become involved in the European war.

WOMAN PAWNS WEDDING RING, SWALLOWS POISON

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—Police today sought friends or relatives of "the woman in black," an attractive brunette of about 30 who ended her life with poison in a mid-town hotel after pawning her only valued possession—her wedding ring.

She had registered at the hotel as Mrs. Adrian Morrison of Chicago. Her body, clad in a filmy black nightgown, was found on the bed near a chair on which rested the glass which had contained poison.

"Living on with an empty stomach is impossible," a note she wrote read. "I know only pain and sorrow. I had only one worldly possession that I valued and that was my wedding ring. I was forced to pawn that to get something to eat—good by."

CRADLE DOESN'T HAVE BABY FOR 'TEASE' ARTIST

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 6—The

Cradle, Evanston's famed fondling home from which many stage and screen stars have adopted infants, for the time being is accepting no more applications from would-be parents—actors or otherwise—it was made clear today.

In response to a report that Ann Corio, burlesque queen, planned to adopt a cradle baby, Managing Director Mrs. William B. Walrath said Miss Corio would be disappointed because there were no infants available.

Mrs. Walrath said there was no objection to the burlesque star because of her "peculiar" art. The waiting list for Cradle babies already is longer than can be handled for some time, Mrs. Walrath said, and for that reason no more applicants will be accepted, at least for the present.

At the same time, Mrs. Walrath said she was disturbed by the frequent "press agent reports" that one star or another was to adopt a Cradle baby. Often, the directress emphasized, the reports are without foundation. She added that the Cradle sets strict standards for persons wishing to become foster parents.

"We ask," she said, "for reputable, intelligent, loving parenthood, and the reasonable assurance of an income sufficient to care for our babies. We have many waiting for us."

STATE WELFARE OFFICIAL FLAYS B. I. S. REPORTS

Mooney Says Breakdown in Discipline, Morale Not True

CAPT. HAYES PRAISED

Fairfielders Charge That Inmates, Not Authorities Running School

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6—While Fairfield County citizens declared that there had been a "breakdown in discipline and morale" at the Boys Industrial School to the extent that the place was a "menace," Assistant State Welfare Director Herbert Mooney today sharply refuted the charges.

Told that certain employees had declared that the school had reached the point where "we don't know who is running the institution—the inmates or the employees," Mooney replied that he had heard no such complaints.

Mooney asserted that since Capt. Harold Hayes became superintendent, there had been "decided improvement" in morale. But other sources asserted:

"There has been no improvement. The morale is shot. Discipline is non-existent. The boys have no respect for law and order."

Employees Disgruntled

It was learned that many employees were disgruntled because they did not receive a $10 a month pay increase they said was "promised" them. Mooney said pay increases had not been promised. Male employees now are paid an average of $80 a month and maintenance and women employees $30 a month and maintenance. There are 132 employees.

Mooney said that Hayes, who was formerly superintendent of the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Xenia, was making every endeavor to correct "deplorable abuses" which existed during "previous administrations."

The assistant welfare director charged that formerly inmates were punished for the slightest infraction of rules such as "talking in line, spilling milk on the tablecloth and other trivial things." He said the boys had been denied reading material and other educational "necessities."

Under the Hayes regime, were being fed better "than most taxpayers could afford," Mooney replied:

"The average cost of feeding the 874 boys is from 30 to 35 cents a day. Under the old administration, from 12 to 20 cents a day was spent for food for each boy. From 50 to 60 cents a day was the cost of feeding each employee."

Launched originally as a correctional school and a place of rehabilitation for youthful delinquents from 10 to 21 years of age, the B. I. S. has been the scene of murders, assaults on employees' wives and frequent escapes.

Problems Studied

Mooney declared that incidents such as those were now "a thing of the past," because "we will endeavor to understand the problems of each individual and attempt to make each boy fit for a place in decent society."

Mooney and other welfare department attaches asserted that the BIS was "50 years behind the times" and that the task of modernization was "tremendous."

"Probably," he continued, "disgruntled employees have been attempting to discredit Capt. Hayes before he has had even a chance to launch constructive practices which we feel will benefit the BIS."

"I understand thoroughly that the BIS is no particular credit to Fairfield County, especially in view of incidents which have occurred. But, on the other hand, Lancaster and the rest of Fairfield County profit from employees at the BIS."

Survey Conducted

The department of education at Ohio State University has been conducting an extensive survey into conditions at the institution, Mooney said. He asserted that in the survey criticisms were frequent but added that each criticism was aimed at conditions as they "formerly existed."

He denied that Hayes' predecessor, A. R. Harsh, had been forced to resign but indicated that the welfare department believed the resignation launched a new era at the institution which sprawls across rolling hills southwest of Lancaster.

Authority On Germany Next Rotary Lecturer

Mrs. Margaret H. Kaiser, recognized as an authority on German political and social problems, will speak Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock as the third person engaged by the Circleville Rotary Club in its Institute of International Understanding. The address will be heard in the social room.

Mrs. Kaiser studied political and social science, and also law, at the University of Berlin, Germany. She then entered on a journalistic career, serving as a member of the staff of "Technik und Wirtschaft," an outstanding technical magazine specializing in the field of economics. From 1926-28 she was staff member of the Governmental Industrial Research Committee where she was in charge of publications dealing with conditions of labor. This furnished her wide contacts with the middle classes and working class of people of the industrial and rural sections of Germany. She served on the editorial staff of Knaur's Lexikon, an outstanding German dictionary, taught industrial relations at the Women's Social and Pedagogical Academy, and gave courses on Psychological and economic subjects at the Lessing Academy for adult education.

Writer of Articles

She has contributed many articles to European and American magazines and papers, such as, the "Berliner Tageblatt," "Berliner Boersenzeltung," "B. Z. am Mittag," and in medical and pharmaceutical publications syndicated in Sweden by the Transuropapress, A. B., Stockholm, and in Switzerland by the Nova-Reportage, Berlin-Geneva-Amsterdam.

Mrs. Kaiser had a distinguished record in the German Woman's Movement which had become influential in Germany prior to the rise of the Nazi party to power. For fifteen years she was Chairman of the scientific committee of the Lyceum Club, and outstanding and internationally known German woman's club. She was one of the founders of the German Soroptimists Club and founded the Dreis Schaffender Frauen, an active woman's club.

She has participated in many international conferences, especially those having to do with the woman's movement and progressive school reform. She has lectured in most of the larger cities of Europe. In 1935, she came to the United States on a journalistic study trip and made a number of addresses. Because of her success on this visit, she was urgently invited to return to the U. S. A. to make other addresses.

Mrs. Kaiser has definitely left Germany and has taken out her first papers for citizenship in the U. S. A. At the outbreak of the war, September 1, 1939, she was traveling in France. Because of having a German passport, she was detained there for over ten weeks. Her possession of a "quota number" for United States citizenship and a reentry permit made possible her release by the French authorities.

OHIOAN NAMED AS EMBEZZLER OF STATE FUND

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6—Old Age Pension Chief Tom McCaw announced today that he had filed embezzlement charges against Walter L. Kildow, Bethesda, O., former Belmont County relief director and former subdivision manager in the county for the state aid for the aged division.

In charges filed in the mayor's court in St. Clairsville, McCaw asserted that Kildow misappropriated $1,138 in funds which four old age pension recipients had entrusted to the aid for the aged division.

Kildow was subdivision manager from Nov. 1, 1935 to May 25, 1936 and district representative for the department from May 25, 1936 until Sept. 1937 when he went to the central office in Columbus as supervisor in charge of field representatives. He resigned March 15, 1939 to become Belmont County relief director.

ZASU PITTS SIGNED

The radio show responsible for the influx of big name screen stars on daily script serials will add still another name star to the radio talent roster when Zasu Pitts trains in from Hollywood to fulfill a long term contract on the Big Sister program.

Commencing Monday, February 12, at 11:30 over CBS, Zasu will be heard on the Big Sister show in the role of "Miss Mamie Wayne," a remote relative of "Dr. John Wayne," played by Martin Gabel. Interesting sidelight on the introduction of a Dr. Wayne relative is the fact that though Ruth Evans Brewster Wayne, (played by Alice Frost) has innumerable relatives running in and out of the script, the character Miss Pitts is to play the first script relative ever allotted Dr. Wayne!

The Mamie Wayne role will give Actress Pitts plenty of opportunity to play the kind of character she does best—Miss Wayne is a small town spinster, loveable, philosophical, enjoyable, with pathos lying close beneath the surface of comedy!

Special Primary Conducted To Fill Two Vacancies Caused By Death

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6 — Voters in the 17th and 22nd Ohio Congressional districts went to the polls today in a special primary to select candidates for the vacant congressional seats in each district.

It marked the first special Ohio congressional primary in years and Secretary of State Earl Griffith predicted a vote 35,000 in the 17th district and 65,000 in the 22nd, 35 percent below normal.

The primaries will be followed by elections on February 27. They were ordered by Gov. John W. Bricker to fill vacancies caused by the deaths of Rep. William A. Ashbrook in the 17th and Rep. Chester C. Bolton in the 22nd. Ashbrook was a Democrat and Bolton a Republican.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, the former congressman's widow, is opposed for the Republican nomination in the 22nd district, comprised of Lake and Geauga counties and part of Cuyahoga. Former Congressman Anthony A. Fieger, Parma, and Merritt A. Vickery, Lakewood, are contesting for the Democratic nomination.

In the 17th district, six Democrats and three Republicans are in today's race. The district is comprised of Delaware, Licking, Knox, Coshocton, Ashland and Richland counties.

Contesting for the GOP nomination are J. Harry McCregor, Coshocton, Republican floor leader of the house of Representatives; Walter B. Woodward, Belleville, unsuccessful 1938 nominee, and Col. Oliver H. Dockery, Jr., Newark.

In the race for the Democratic nomination are Bryon B. Ashbrook, a nephew of the late congressman; Frank Cave, Mansfield, former speaker of the Ohio house; Ben A. Arenson, Delaware; William Haas, Delaware; George J. McDonald, Newark, and Burch Ferenbaugh, Danville.

FRANCES LANGFORD

Frances Langford singing "It's a Blue World" will highlight the Hollywood hall of the Star Theatre program Wednesday, February 7, 9:00 over CBS. Kenny Baker will sing "Night and Day" and the orchestra will play "Little Red Fox." On the New York end, Margo and Chester Morris will be heard in a dramatization of "Kick In."

RADIO NEWS NOTES

February 7 will revolve around Belvedere Trawl, who Allen claims is an Englishman responsible for inventing the tea bag.

Jack Leonard, former warbler with Tommy Dorsey, becomes a regular on Raymond Scott's "Concerts in Rhythm" over CBS starting February 6.

David Ross, starred in the "Pipe Dreams" portion of the "Breezin' Along" programs, is the author of "Passport Beyond Tyranny" which gets publication in Poetry Magazine of Chicago.

Edward R. Murrow, CBS's London correspondent, has been bedded in a London hospital with the flu.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE THIRD TERM

Should Mr. Roosevelt run for a third term, every believer in authoritarian government throughout the world will say that our democracy is taking a step down the same road which has been followed by other free governments to their doom.

A lesser point will be made. It will be taken as one more proof that Jefferson is the forgotten man of this administration.

Jefferson was the chief author of the unwritten law against a third term. Many leading Republicans have given it their support, but it is a historical fact that Democrats have been more outspoken for it than Republicans. Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party, said, "If PETTENGILL some period be not fixed, either by the Constitution or by practice, to the service of the first magistrate, his office, though nominally elective, will in fact be for life, and that will soon degenerate into an inheritance. George Washington set the example of voluntary retirement after eight years. I shall follow it. And a few more precedents will oppose the obstacle of habit to anyone who shall endeavor to extend his term."

These "few more precedents" were made by Madison, Democrat, who served eight years and retired, and by Monroe, Democrat, who also served eight years. As a result, Jefferson, in 1821, could write, "The example of four presidents voluntarily retiring at the end of eight years have given the principle the force of precedent inasmuch that, should a President consent to be a candidate for a third term, I trust he would be rejected, on this demonstration of ambitious views." Democrats, please note.

Next we have Andrew Jackson, Democrat, in whose honor a dinner costing $100 a plate was recently held. Jackson was President eight years. It is generally believed that no one could have defeated him for a third term. Yet Jackson was not only a man of the people, but a man of principle. In every annual message to Congress for eight years he advocated a constitutional amendment providing that Presidents be eligible for only one term of four or six years. He urged it in order "that the security for his independence may be rendered as strong as the nature of power and the weakness of its possessor may admit."

Presidents Polk and Buchanan, both Democrats, urged the same principle. Buchanan said that "It is now as sacred as if it were written in the Constitution." Andrew Johnson, anti-slavery Democrat, urged Congress to submit an amendment to provide for a single term of four or six years.

Grover Cleveland, Democrat, in accepting the nomination in 1884, both Democrats, urged the same principle. Buchanan said that "It is now as sacred as if it were written in the Constitution."

Andrew Johnson, anti-slavery Democrat, urged Congress to submit an amendment to provide for a single term of four or six years.

Grover Cleveland, Democrat, in accepting the nomination in 1884,

NORWALK SOLON TO ENTER RACE FOR U. S. SENATE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6 — The second strong contender to announce for the Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate to succeed Sen. Vic Donahey was expected to jump into the race today.

He was Congressman Dudley A. White, representing the 13th district, who said he will formally announce in a speech in his home city of Norwalk tonight. Mayor Harold H. Burton, Cleveland, announced his candidacy last week.

Meanwhile, Ohio GOP leaders scanned a list of potential senatorial candidates upon which State Chairman Ed D. Schorr had asked them to express their preference. Besides White and Burton, Schorr listed James N. Linton, Columbus attorney; Charles E. Wharton, Kenton; Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton, and Congressman-at-large George H. Bender, Cleveland.

NEW STAMPS GO ON SALE; MONTH RECEIPTS GAIN

The first set of Commemorative Famous American stamps will go on sale at the end of this week, Postmaster A. Hulse Hays said Tuesday. The sale of the brown 10 cent Mark Twain will be held up until February 14. Ralph Waldo Emerson, Louisa May Alcott and Mark Twain are honored in the present series on three, five and ten cent stamps.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, John Greenleaf Whittier, James Russell Lowell, Walt Whitman and James Whitcomb Riley are the honored figures in American life who will constitute the second set that will be placed on sale during the latter part of the month. The stamps will be of one, two, three, five and ten cent denominations, respectively.

"There will be ten sets in all," the postmaster said, "and these are perhaps the most highly colored and brightest stamps that have ever been printed by the post-office department."

Postal receipts for the month, $2,964,84, are $214.71 higher than for January, 1939. The incoming mail has reached voluminous proportions and is nearing the mark set at Christmas. Most of it is advertising matter and catalogues, Mr. Hays indicated.

Township filed a divorce petition Monday in Common Pleas court against Gerald Dunn. They were married in Fullerton, Ky. September 5, 1939.

DEER OR CATTLE?

AN interesting point is raised in connection with the spread of "tick fever" among Florida cattle. It has been proposed to kill all deer on the Seminole Indian reservation, to keep them from infecting the cattle. But Secretary of the Interior Ickes, after consulting the Indian Commissioner, refuses to take such action. It would violate the rights of the Indians, he says.

There is another reason, possibly more important in the long run. The Indian commissioner says that such slaughter would be unwise because "the Everglades are an inferior cattle country, while they are a perfect deer country."

If we had followed this principle from the beginning, throughout the United States, we would still be benefitting from many forms of wild life which are now virtually extinct. It was realized too late, for instance, that large areas of our western plains might better have been left to the buffaloes.

REPEATING A BLUNDER

JAMES T. SHOTWELL in his new book, "What Germany Forgot", points out that, contrary to Hitler's oft-repeated claims, it was not the Versailles Treaty which hurt that country but the war that preceded the peace. The major burden borne after 1918 was the paralyzing effect of the war itself on German domestic economy. The four-year concentration of national energies and resources on waging a strong war had militarized the country and almost hopelessly crippled its industry, trade, finance and credit.

The Germans have misread history tragically, as have most of the rest of us, and the result is that they have plunged into a worse repetition of the mistakes made a quarter of a century ago. And since, in the long run, war cannot cure the diseases war has caused, the whole world is likely to get deeper and deeper into trouble unless it turns soon to a constructive way out.

GOOD BAD-WEATHER DRIVING

WHAT this country needs to cut down its yearly traffic toll is to carry its bad-weather driving habits over into the fine-weather season.

Motorists use extra care in driving when streets are icy and visibility is lowered by fog or snow. They go slower. They watch out for the other fellow. They heed traffic signals. So instead of a jump in serious accidents, the records show a period of increased safety.

It is true that there are many more cars on the streets when the weather is

BORAH INTIMATES FLOORED

WASHINGTON—The disclosure that the late Senator Borah left $207,000 in currency and government bonds in a safe deposit box literally floored his Senate intimates. For years they had known him as a poor man who on more than one occasion had bemoaned his failure to make money in private law practice, as other members of Congress did.

One of these instances occurred last spring just before the Washington visit of the British King and Queen. Borah was in the Republican cloakroom chatting with several colleagues when one of them remarked that his wife had "nicked" him that morning for a new dress to attend the British Embassy garden party.

"I wish I could buy my wife a new dress," remarked Borah dolefully. "I'd like to be able to do that, but I just can't afford it and make ends meet."

"Bill," asked one of the group, "why haven't you practised law on the side? It's perfectly proper. Many members of Congress do it, and make good money too. I just heard the other day that Burt Wheeler got a very handsome fee for defending a California racehorse owner."

"Yes, I know that's done," replied Borah. "I know of a former Senator who was paid $40,000 in a case that actually amounted to little more than the use of his name. I could have had big fees, but while it's perfectly proper, I've always felt it just wasn't the right thing to do. My constituents elected me to represent them. They hired me and I've always taken the attitude that it was a fulltime job."

"Anyway, it's too late for me to begin practising law now. You can't teach an old dog new tricks, and Mrs. Borah will have to do without a new dress. There are other values in life besides money and dresses."

NOTE — Borah's $207,000 savings chiefly were from insurance policies which had accumulated and which presumably were left for Mrs. Borah's protection. The Senator never mentioned this to his wife and the nest-egg came as a complete surprise to her.

SMOOTHIE JOHN HANCOCK

During the Monopoly Committee hearings on investment banking, Robert Lehman, brother of New York's Governor, got appendicitis and was unable to testify regarding the Lehman Brothers banking firm. So John Hancock, another Lehman partner, testified in his place.

Hancock's testimony was a masterpiece of toning down the assertions and implications of SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson and committee counsel Nehemkis. After the session was over, Henderson shook hands and told Hancock:

"Well, if Martin Dies calls me as a (Continued on Page Eight)

fine and the pavements are clean. But that isn't the reason for the more frequent accidents. The reason is that too many drivers think there is no further need for constant caution and begin to take chances, speed up and let the attention wander.

Those things are all within their own control. They have only to remember and practice next June the lessons of the safety records made in January.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a nasty morning, one of the cold, damp kind that disorients everything good and bad. Did recall that I have seen several cities for the first time in such atmosphere and never since have cared for them. At the post did chat briefly with Hulse and then headed for the office, there to read a letter from two women I regard as quality folks. Each had sent a $5 check to be added to the Finnish Relief fund, and the letter gave this quotation: "And must I give and give again?"

"Ah, no, said the angel looking me through. "Just stop when the Father stops giving to you."

I don't know why I never ran onto that quotation before, but I am very glad to learn it now. It will be a most comforting thing to know when in the future I feel reluctant in reaching for my purse.

Earl Browder, who just recently was declared not a radical, had this to say in a speech a few days ago: "A new and higher type of civilization (the Soviet Union) is defending its borders against a smaller neighbor (Finland) which refused to guarantee the safety of Leningrad." A few more remarks like that and Earl can name his own salary as a radio comedian.

Ernie Weiler is out again and dropped into the office to voice real appreciation for the cards he received when he was staging as tough a fight as a man could wage with the Grim Reaper. Saw Frank Lynch and complimented him on the message painted on the rear of his largest Coca Cola truck and which, he says, soon will be on all his trucks. "Good Luck to You," reads the message. Makes me feel better every time I see it.

Orville Smith is a tenant on the Dave Dunlap farm. The other day he was burned out, losing everything. This day he knows a lot about human kindness and asked that I thank the Elks, Red Cross, neighbors of Pickaway Township, the Circleville relief organization and the people of Circleville for their kindness toward him and his family. I'm delighted to thank them. And I am delighted to be able to live among such fine people.

Ernest Crites sent up a box of Florida fruit in which I shared with relish. Was in Columbus briefly and saw Harold Mosier and Garret Claypool with their heads together. Don't be too much surprised when Harold becomes a serious contender for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Heard about a couple of kids attending the High street school who wore little more than Summer attire to their classes. So cold that they cried. How can that be when we spend so much cash for relief and when at least one reliever I know gets enough to allow him to play a dime a day on the numbers? Maybe it would be well to cut down on donations in some spots and increase them in others. I just don't like the idea of kids being inadequately clad or fed.

Ground-Hog Called to War on Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

GROUND-HOG DAY has some medical significance this year. A great many ground-hogs did not have to come out on February 2 because they were already taken out and being used in laboratories to study the process of hibernation.

I spoke a few weeks ago on the researches that are being done by the use of low temperature in cases of cancer. The body heat of patients with cancer is brought down by ice packs to 80° or 70° F., and in many instances severe cases of cancer are relieved and apparently improved.

Of course, doctors are wondering just what the mechanism is that causes this improvement.

A possible analogy is found in the treatment of melancholy and depressed states (dementia praecox) by the use of insulin. Insulin, of course, reduces the sugar in the blood and it is theoretically supposed that the insulin deprives the brain cells of sugar. We know that the brain cells utilize only sugar and oxygen in their nutritional processes. They do not use protein. It has been supposed that when the brain cells are deprived of these two elements, the brain starts in some way on a new functional track, which is the cause of the improvement.

Deprived of Food?

Applying this idea to cancer cells and the freezing treatment, the question is whether cancer cells are deprived of cold of food substances which they need. We know that in the hibernating animal, all the sugar in the body accumulates in the liver. Apparently that is why they go to sleep. The brain is deprived of its necessary sugar. All functional processes decline. A ground-hog, or woodchuck, during hibernation will have a body temperature as low as 40° F. It is theoretically possible for human beings to be reduced to this level. If so, the sugar in the body may be choked off from body cells and cancer cells, deprived of this nutritive material, disintegrate.

When the ground-hog wakes up naturally from his winter sleep, he has the "shakes" like a person with palsy for several hours; this also indicates lack of sugar in the tissues.

At any rate, the humble ground-hog is being used for experimental purposes to see if it can throw light on the mechanism of the new freezing treatment.

YESTERDAY: Romany finds that Baxter Tree is a staunch friend, helping her frequently with her radio scripts.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

CHOLLY HELD the radio page of the Sunday Globe out to Romany as she awakened. Romany asked sleepily:

"What next?"
"There's hardly room left for the programs. Look at your picture! It takes up half the page." Romany sat up in bed.

"Gimme, quick!"
She read:
"Farm Implement Heires Makes Radio Bow Tomorrow. As Celeste, the new menace in Myra Noyes' hit 'Twilight of Love,' this new beauty, Romany Haile, comes to the airwaves. Miss Haile also is in the race for the title of Miss Television. The contest takes place during the holidays by fan voting."

The picture showed Romany in Aunt Cissie's most seductive gown, her lovely black bared and her head turned so that her clear-cut, sun-tanned profile stood out beautifully. It was framed by her jet black hair, sleeked over her ears, with a soft roll low on the neck.

"You look like royalty ought to look," Cholly sighed enviously. "I don't blame 'em for laying that hellish business on thick. Oh, Romey, aren't you lucky?"

"So will you be some of these days," Romany predicted brightly, wishing again there were something she could do to help Cholly in radio. "If I could help you get a start!"

"As if living here chaperoning you isn't saving my life," Cholly tried to sound cheerful. "You stop worrying about me and enjoy your success! I'm just as happy as you about the breaks you're getting."

"I know you are, darlin'," Romany slipped into her house coat. "But I'd be terribly jealous if you were in my show and I in yours."

"Yes, you would," scoffed Cholly. "You're just the type!"

Brent and Romany were on the beach that afternoon when Dover arrived for the promised Sunday dinner. Cholly met him at the door in a big white apron she'd found hanging in the kitchen. It was twice her size. Her face was flushed and there was a smudge of flour on her cheek. Dover kissed the smudge away.

"Woman!" He stood back holding her at arms' length. "If you weren't you, I'd almost say you'd spent hours picking out a costume to dazzle me with."

"Just for that," threatened Cholly, "I'll put arsenic in your fried chicken. I was going to change before you got here. But you're fifteen minutes early."

"I couldn't wait," grinned Dover. "You look like an angel costumed by Omar the Tentmaker."

Cholly started for the kitchen. "Do you want to come out here? I'm right in the middle of things."

Dove sniffed at pots and pans. "Fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans, celery! Home-made apple pie! I came early just to make sure you really were going to cook."

The door bell rang. Cholly was rolling chicken in flour.

"I'll get it," said Dover. He came back loaded down with packages.

"These seem to be for you," Cholly looked perplexed. She wiped her hands on her apron.

"I didn't order anything sent. Maybe Romany did."

"No, they're for you," Dover could hardly see over the load in his arms.

"Take them into the living room," Cholly followed him out of the kitchen. "There must be some mistake."

Dover put the packages down

Cholly threw her arms around his neck happily. Cholly. Don't you think you could love him?"

"And what," Cholly said impatiently, "if I did fall in love with Dover Hayworth? Don't you think I'd have too much sense to ever let him know it? I tell you no one has ever found happiness marrying out of 'his own class.'"

Romany sighed:
"Have you been reading dime novels again? Well, go ahead and spoil your life if you want to. But if you ask me, Dover Hayworth is one of the nicest men I've ever met in my life. I approve of him in every way."

"Thanks!" Cholly smiled uncertainly. "You don't always approve of my boy friends."

"You could mean Terry," Romany studied her face. "Tell me, Cholly, you've gotten over all your foolishness about him, haven't you? You—don't love him any more?"

Cholly turned away. "That," she said very low, "is a closed chapter in my life. I—let's not talk about it. I've never heard from him since the afternoon he came into the store. I—guess he's through, too."

Dover seemed to bow to almost everyone in Landau's—where the foursome danced later. Cholly felt uncomfortable because they seemed to be the center of attention. Brent and Romany were partly responsible for the interest, of course. But Cholly knew Dover's friends who hadn't met her on the boat were wondering who she might be. He was so obviously attentive, so determined that they should know where he stood in case they did know she was the girl from the music store, that Cholly felt doubly conspicuous.

Fortunately, Pee Wee Tyler did not put in an appearance. At least that was a great consolation to Cholly.

But they were leaving Landau's at one o'clock, walking through the foyer, when Cholly looked up and straight into the eyes of Terry O'Rourke. At his side, sophisticated and dazzling in black tulle, was Myra Noyes. Romany glanced aside with Cholly quickly and saw her face whiten.

Cholly could never quite know how her weak knees carried her out the door of Landau's and to Dover's waiting car. It was the first time she had ever seen Terry with another woman. And he didn't look at all down and out or heart broken. He looked gay—and indifferent. Her Terry!

Monday Club Announces
Nominating Committee

Members Listen
To Address On Conferences

Social
Calendar

Miss Gretchen Moeller, chairman, Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson and Mrs. A. D. Newmyer were the elected members of the nominating committee when Monday Club met February 5 in the library Trustees' room, Memorial Hall, with Mrs. Ray Davis in the chair.

Most interesting was the program in the History-Geography division following the business session. Mrs. T. W. Brown, chairman, presented Miss Margaret Mattinson, whose subject was "Significant Inter-American Conferences—1933, 1936, 1939".

In opening her talk Miss Mattinson said, "The Americas! What is their place in world life? Certainly this question has been asked by many of us and just as certainly in the last few months we have come to realize more poignantly than ever before, that their place is an important one. The geographical, economic and political aspects of the 21 republics are to be considered."

Miss Mattinson then gave the geographical setting of the countries comprising as they do a vast region of many similarities and contrasts. She spoke of them as an economic wonderland, possessing a rich and colorful history, broad culture and a profound love of peace and freedom.

Its detached position from the other continents, its great north and south length which permits its territory to enjoy four of the five zones, its magnificent views, its lakes which give it the best inland transportation in the world, its interior regions, which enclose huge valleys of great productivity and its rich natural resources, give this country physical features greater than those of any other continent.

She then reviewed the economic position of the country and told of the political situation of the republics starting 165 years ago.

Continuing, she took the subject of international relations into consideration tracing the birth of Pan-Americanism from its inception in 1826 through various conferences to the last in Panama in 1939. She said that "The Pan-American Union is an institution having an official character, but lacking political power, created and supported by the 21 American republics for the purpose of fostering mutual understanding and cooperation, its essential duty being to make effective the resolutions adopted by the conferences. It should be regarded as a vast coordinating step in collective security."

Closing her talk Miss Mattinson stated that the union should be regarded as an alliance of the Americas, "an instrument that would make the hemisphere ready, economically and politically, for the defense of American peace and security."

The topic, "Latin-America's Links with the World—Highways, Air Lines and Ship Lines" by Mrs. W. T. Uim was carried over to the February 19 meeting.

Miss Margaret Rooney is scheduled to review the book, "Woman on Horseback," by William E. Barrett at this meeting.

Von Bora Society

The well arranged program of the Von Bora Society proved deeply interesting to the 48 members and visitors who gathered in the parish house Monday for the February session.

Mrs. Frank Webbe, president, led the business session and was in charge of the devotional hour which included responsive reading from the Bible and prayer.

The topic, "Bring Them In: the Unchurched Millions," was discussed by Mrs. Mary K. Bower, who took her information from the Outlook. She arranged her subject in the form of questions and answers, with Mrs. Ralph Beck, Mrs. George Green and Mrs. John Walters assisting. The lengthy open discussion proved very enlightening to the group.

Miss Catherine Fischer read an article on "Lutheran Finland" taken from a standard church paper, bringing home the fact that many of the people of this war-torn country are members of the Lutheran Church. Miss

CULLENBINE MAY BECOME STRONG BROOKLYN STAR

By Bill Corum

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—I don't know why the name Cullenbine should sound more like somebody in a ballet than a ball player. I only know that it does.

Thus I was inclined to think that in parting with $25,000 and a $10,000 yearly salary for the recently freed Detroit Tiger, the Brooklyn club made no exceptional bargain.

The youthful Spike Briggs, of the Detroit front office, warns me that I am wrong. Spike, who grew from an amateur jockey into a diamond mogul in three or four short years and must sometimes wish as he sees the Tigers perform that he was a jockey again, claims Cullenbine has the potentialities of greatness.

"Roy had the stuff to be the best outfielder on our club," said Spike. "He can hit and field and he's fast. He also, unfortunately, is temperamental. His success with Brooklyn will depend a lot on how MacPhail and Durocher handle him."

"He won't be the problem child another player Brooklyn got from us (ed. note—Baron Boots Poffenberger), but he requires plenty of handling and helping. He looks bigger now than he was last year, and he might come up with a really fine year for Durocher."

The writer never saw Cullenbine play enough to form more than a casual opinion of him. On the few occasions that we did see him, he looked like just another outfielder. But, then, that was what the entire Detroit outfield looked to be peopled with last season.

WIFE OF FORMER RED KILLED IN KENTUCKY CRASH

LANCASTER, Ky., Feb. 6—Mrs. Ann Scarsella, 24-year-old wife of Les Scarsella, first baseman for the Boston Bees, and Miss Helen Vassill, 16, were dead today, victims of an automobile-coal truck crash. Scarsella and his two-year-old daughter, Elaine, escaped with minor injuries.

Garrard County Sheriff V. A. Lear said Scarsella's car collided head-on with a coal truck driven by Lester Helton, 23, Brodhead, Ky. Miss Vassill was killed instantly while Mrs. Scarsella died two hours later in a Danville, Ky., hospital.

Scarsella, who was enroute to the Bees spring training camp in Bradenton, Fla., was formerly with Cincinnati and was traded to Boston last fall in a deal which brought Pitcher Jim Turner to the Reds.

GOOD GAMES ON LOOP SCHEDULE FOR WEDNESDAY

Other contests on the schedule which begins at 7 o'clock will be Caskey Cleaners vs. John Deere Tractors, Purina Chows vs. Eshelman Feeds and Wallace Bakery vs. Western Auto Supply.

The Wednesday card is billed as Western Auto Supply Night.

He Has Date With Louis

HERE'S Arturo Godoy, the Argentine heavyweight who meets Joe Louis for the heavy title in New York February 9. Some ring critics expect Godoy to go the way of all opponents for the Detroit Brown Bomber. Others predict Godoy will make the bout look something like a fight.

Odds Of 4 To 1 Favor Joe Over Chilean Foe

By Hype Igoo

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—When a heavyweight champion of the world and his challenger toil day in and day out to attain a certain weight and they come up to the title bout, hitting those marks right on the dot, you can set it down that they have worked faithfully.

Joe Louis said that he would come in at noon on Friday next, weighing 202 for the defense of the coronet against Arturo Godoy, the Chilean invader.

Godoy told me two days ago that he would make exactly 205 for Louis. And this is how close they are shooting around the target. Louis weighed 204 after his last workout and Godoy balanced the beam at 208. For eight weeks Godoy has shackled himself like a galley slave to the proposition of coming in at that mark. Louis eyes the weighing each day with the look of an eagle. He'll be closer than a frog's whisker to the 202 notch and frogs ain't got whiskers!

Godoy winds up his boxing to-day and Louis will lop over until tomorrow, just to make sure. Just now, Louis is a 4 to 1 shot over Godoy. Those odds will stretch out like a giraffe's neck if Chilean money doesn't show in bundles by Friday. No matter what the odds, I insist that Joe, if he doesn't catch Arturo early, will be in for a rough evening.

WARSHIPS BRING SOUTH AMERICAN STARS TO U. S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—A fleet of warships would bring South America's sports teams to the United States next summer, under plans projected today by the Pan-American games committee of the A. A. U.

Daniel J. Ferris, National A. A. U. Secretary, said that the committee hoped to have invitations extended through the federal government in such a way that the good-will element would be emphasized. As a consequence, it is hoped, the South American nations would transport their teams in warships.

Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York are the only cities in the running for the Pan-American games, designed to replace the Olympics.

"It will be decided finally at our meeting February 16 whether to go ahead or to drop the matter," Ferris said. "I think they will go ahead. Philadelphia has offered to guarantee expenses of $100,000 and up to $500,000 if necessary. Los Angeles has said it will match the Philadelphia proposition. We also know that the World's Fair and the Golden Gate Exposition are interested."

"The idea is to give the Western Hemisphere a complete substitute for the abandoned Olympics. Furthermore, it is hoped that if the Pan-American games are conducted this year they will be held every four years, between Olympics."

RACE OFFICIAL DIES
NEW YORK, Feb. 6—The horse racing world today mourned the death of Frank J. He had been associated with racing for 25 years.

NATIONAL LOOP MOGULS GATHER TO TALK PLANS

Mr. Landis Getting Rough Treatment; Terry Lets Bonura Make Deal

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—National League club owners meet today in New York to put the finishing touches on the 1940 playing schedule and to discuss the effects of the Landis proposals on their investments.

This is the annual schedule meeting and ordinarily only routine business is considered but there is so much uncertainty over the fate of "working agreements" with minor league clubs that the magnates put in a preliminary session yesterday at league headquarters.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball czar, probably got a thorough "going over" at this gathering.

Revising the schedule to provide six of the eight clubs with seven night dates also comes under the head of new business. The Pittsburgh and St. Louis clubs only recently decided to install light plants next season.

Crosley Entertains

Tonight Powell Crosley, president of the Cincinnati club entertains the other club owners at a dinner in accordance with National League custom of the pennant winner consoling the seven losers in the grand manner.

No deals were reported today although six of the eight managers lingered in the city.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, today gave Zeke Bonura, his hold-out first baseman, permission to make a deal for himself.

The Phillies are reported interested in Bonura and he may land with them provided he is willing to slash his demand for an $18,000 salary.

Contrary to his usual custom, Terry refused to predict where his team would finish this season.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—Luke Appling, a perennial holdout, shattered tradition by signing his 1940 contract with the Chicago White Sox without a complaint, it was revealed today. The star shortstop was among several who returned their okayed contracts to the club yesterday. Others signing were Eric McNair, veteran infielder, and Pitcher Jack Knott.

MICHIGAN AIDS 185 STUDENTS ON ATHLETIC LIST

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—Aid through jobs, scholarships or loans was given 185 of the 347 students listed as athletes at the University of Michigan last year, it was revealed today in the seventh of a series of statements detailing financial assistance available to Big Ten athletes.

Seventeen of the athletes held scholarships, 41 were extended loans to the total of $5,620, and 127 held campus jobs paying an aggregate of $15,940.10. Of those with jobs 81 were employed by the national youth administration for an average wage for the year of $100.

No tuition remissions are made at Michigan, but loans are granted on the basis of "need, academic standing and general worthiness" in accordance with Western Conference regulations.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE TO RECOMMEND IMPROVEMENTS IN CIRCLEVILLE JAIL

HEALTH BOARD FIRM IN STAND TO CLOSE CELLS

Officials Have Month To Recondition Unsanitary Structure

PAINT, PLUMBING ASKED

New Prison Needed, Chairman Of Group Declares, But Funds Are Lacking

The Circleville board of health reaffirmed its decree Monday afternoon at a meeting in City Hall that the city jail will be padlocked unless council does something about its unsanitary condition, and at the same time it was learned that the city council's health committee will recommend Wednesday evening that a repair program be inaugurated immediately.

The board of health a month ago gave council 60 days in which to repair the jail or have it padlocked. Members declared Monday that they have definitely decided to close the cells unless something is done in the next 30 days.

George Groom, chairman of council's health committee, said Tuesday that he and other city officials had inspected the jail and had found it unsanitary as charged by the health board.

"We are recommending," he said, "that as a temporary measure the different rooms be thoroughly cleaned and that all iron work and stone work be heavily painted. Several metal cots should be installed, also, and it is necessary that a water trap be installed to prevent the inflow of sewage during heavy rains."

Mr. Groom declared that nothing less than a new prison can provide a permanent remedy for the prevailing condition. Members of council declare that there is no money available for a new prison. The attempt to pass a bond issue for a new jail structure has been defeated by voters.

The jail has been condemned numerous times and several mayors have asked for improvements, but nothing has ever been done to correct conditions prevailing there.

WISCONSIN MAN SHOTS NURSE, HURTS HIMSELF

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 6 — Harry Christiansen, 21-year-old son of a prominent Wisconsin lumberman, was in a critical condition today from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head.

Police said the youth shot himself after he had shot and killed Mildred Bell, 22-year-old graduate nurse, as she sat in a drug store with a young woman friend.

According to the friend, Miss Marie Rose, also a nurse, Christiansen rushed into the store, where the young women were sitting in a booth drinking sodas, and opened fire on Miss Bell without a preliminary word. He then shot himself.

Miss Bell, struck by four bullets at close range, was dead before a police ambulance squad arrived.

Christiansen and Miss Bell had known each other for two years, but they had not been engaged and the girl discouraged his attentions, police said they had learned.

Christiansen's father is Harry E. Christiansen, president of a lumber company and a friend of Gov. Julius P. Heil. The elder Christiansen was one of the first honorary colonels appointed by the governor.

COTTON STORAGE

When able little Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts took the floor last summer during the debate on the better-cotton classification bill and urged approval of a provision to store 300,000 bales of Government-owned cotton in New England, the House rose as one man and cheered him.

The amendment went through to the tune of one of the most cordial bi-partisan ovations according a member of Congress. It is doubtful, however, if the popular Republican floor leader would have offered his proposal if he had known what was going to happen afterwards.

Today those 300,000 bales, three percent of the total government holdings, are the center of the bitterest undercover brawl in the career of the Commodity Credit Corporation, custodian of the cotton.

Cause of the melee is a deal which the Corporation claims was made between James Joseph O'Donnell, New York and Boston cotton broker, and a group of New England warehouses for a brokerage commission on the lucrative storage fees. O'Donnell, who has powerful Washington influence and lobbied for the legislation, lined up a number of warehouses and appeared on the high road to getting a 10 percent commission, when the Credit Corporation stepped into the picture and upset his applecart with two edicts:

(1) That any cotton moved to New England would be allocated to warehouses purely on a competitive basis; and (2) that no contract would be awarded to a warehouse that was under an agreement.

GROCCERS PLEAD FOR SHARE OF RELIEF ORDERS

Protesting because they have not been receiving their share of business from persons receiving relief orders, a group of independent Circleville grocers appeared before the county commissioners Monday afternoon to request that some action be taken to "pass around" the business.

The grocers expressed belief that the commissioners had power to order relief business distributed, but they were informed by the county officials and by Relief Director D. H. Marcy that the State Welfare Department rules that any person receiving a relief order may deal where he wishes.

The grocers made a similar protest in a recent recessed session of city council.

Ministers Gather For Meeting At Ashville

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Pickaway County Ministerial Association met in the Methodist Church of Ashville at noon on Monday, participating in a co-operative dinner provided by the wives of the minister. Those present were, Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Sherburne, Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Thomas, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Ramsey, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Strickland, Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Bowman, Rev. R. T. Kelsey, Rev. D. H. Householder, Rev. V. C. Stump, Rev. T. A. Ballinger, Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Harbaugh, Homer S. Reber and Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Peters.

At 1:15, the president, Rev. Sherburne, called the business meeting to order, and arrangements were completed for the March meeting to be held in Turlington with Rev. C. L. Thomas speaking on "What Lent Means To Me". The June meeting is to be in charge of the ministers' wives.

The chairman of the program committee, the Rev. C. F. Bowman, presented the speaker of the session the Rev. W. D. Ramsey who gave a book review on "Evangelism in a Changing World" by Ambrose M. Bailey. The excellence of the paper presented by Mr. Ramsey was attested by the long discussion which followed.

Many echoes of the recent Pastors' Convention were heard in the conversation and the ministers agreed that the plan of meeting and exchange of thought in these meetings were invigorating.

Mr. Reber, president of the Pickaway County Methodist Men, met the Methodist pastors at Ashville and discussed the next meeting of this organization and it was decided that a meeting be held on February 29 at 7 p. m. at Circleville. Arrangements for a speaker of repute and music are pending and announcement will be made regarding these matters at a later date.

A congregational meeting for women only will be held at the Methodist Church, Ashville, on Sunday at 2 p. m. for the purpose of electing three delegates to a district meeting at Circleville, Sunday, February 25. All women of the Church and its organizations are invited.

Business at the local postoffice for the month of January closed good and well up to the same month of last year as Postmaster Smith's figures show according to his report handed us yesterday. Stamp sales amounted to $401.07; number money orders written, 450; cash and fees received for same, $3,149.60; cash sent to general accounting office, $2,722.68.

Ex-Squire Sherm Hoover in addition to making a lot of "The best sausage in the world," is a full-fledged automobile salesman, being connected with the Circleville Ford Agency. Sold one Monday and has some "good prospects" ahead, he thinks.

Theodore Boor along with his helper, Marion Glick, is refitting and converting old fashioned square-corner tractor plows into the "plow around the corner" kind.

William and Mrs. Valentine are now residents of Ashville.

CHICAGO HAPPY TO ENTERTAIN DEM DELEGATES

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 — Chicago businessmen were delighted today that the city has been selected as the site for the 1940 Democratic national convention, and envisioned a flood of extra dollars from the 30,000 to 50,000 expected convention visitors.

At the same time, President Oscar G. Mayer of the Association of Commerce hailed the selection as entirely "logical," saying:

"It is logical that the Democratic national committee should have honored Chicago again by naming it as the place of the 1940 presidential convention. Chicago, hub of the inland empire, probably reflects the present attitude of our citizens on current governmental affairs better than any other section of the country. Here the farmer and the industrialist meet on common ground."

Sixteen national conventions have been held in Chicago by the Republican and Democratic parties since 1860 and nine of the men nominated to the presidency here have been elected.

The successful candidates nominated in Chicago were Abraham Lincoln, 1860; Ulysses S. Grant, 1868; James A. Garfield, 1880; Grover Cleveland, 1884 and 1892; Benjamin Harrison, 1888; Theodore Roosevelt, 1904; William Howard Taft, 1908; Warren G. Harding, 1920, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1932. All but FDR and Cleveland were Republicans.

GERHARDT RUNS FOR NEW TERM AS PROSECUTOR

George E. Gerhardt, Pickaway County prosecuting attorney, announced Tuesday that he has placed his petition in circulation for the Democratic nomination for a second term.

Mr. Gerhardt during his first term has followed a policy of economy and courtesy. Only a few criminal trials have been conducted during the last few years, since Mr. Gerhardt became prosecutor, the office's policy having been to accept guilty pleas when at all possible and thus escape the expense involved in a trial.

No opposition has as yet entered the field against Mr. Gerhardt.
